The Nice Girl.

There is nothing half so sweet in life, nalf so beautiful, or delightful, or so loveable as a "nice girl." Not a pretty, or a dashing, or an elegant girl, but a nice girl. One of those lovely, lively, good tempered, good-hearted, sweet-laced amiable, neat, iappy, domestic creatures met within the sphere of home, diffusing around the domestic hearth the influence of her goodness like the essence of sweet flowers.

A nice girl is not the languishing beauty, dawdling on the sofu, and discussing the last novel or opera; or, the giraffe like creature sweeping majestically through a

The nice girl may not even dance or play well, and knows nothing about fusing her eyes," or coquetting with a fan. She is not ing her bare shoulders, but sits quietly and unobtrusively-at the back of the baz most likely. In fact, it is not often in such scenes we discover her. Home is her

Who rises betimes, and superintends the morning meal? Who makes the toast and the tea, and buttons the boys' shirts, and waters the flowers, and feeds the chickous, and brightens up the parier and snong room? Is it the languisher, or the giraffe, or the elegante? Not a bit of it-it's the nice gill.

Her namade toilet is made in the shortest possible time, yet how charmingly it is done, and how elegant her neat dress and plain color! What kisses she distributes among the family! Not presenting a check or a blow, like "a fine girl," but an audible smack, which says plainly: "I love you ever so much." If I ever coveted anything, it is one of the nice girl's kisses. Breakfast over, down in the kitchen to see about dinner; always cheerful and light-hearted. She never ceases to be active and useful until the day is done, when she will polka with the boys, and sing old songs, and play old tunes to her father for hours together. She is a perfect treasure, is the nice girl, when sickness comes; it is she that attends with unwearving patience to the sick chamber. There is no risk, no fatigue that she will not undergo, no sacrifice that she will not make. She is all love, all devotion. I have often thought it would be happiness to be ill, to be watched by such loving eyes and tended by such fair hands. One of the most strongly marked characteristics of a nice girl is tidiness and simplicity of dress. She is ever associated in my mind with a high frock, plain collar, and the peatest of neck ribbons, bound with the most modest little broach in the world. I never knew a nice girl who disthe purpose of choosing, by a majority of the played a profusion of rings and bracelets, said Stockholders, by ballot to be belivered in or who were low dresses or a splendid or who were low dresses or a spleudid bonnet.

I say again, there is nothing in the world half so beautiful, half so intrinsically good, as a nice girl. She is the sweetest with something in her apron. She said her flower in the path of life. There are others far more stately, far more gorgeous, but it was a very fine one; and as he said "the these we merely admire as we go by. It is where the daisy grows that we lie down

I remember a poor old loafer who was familiarly known to the people round about Cheshire, Mass., by the saccharine title of half-crazy fellow, yet pussessed of wit of no common order, though, from his ways of life, it was naturally rough and unpolished. The evening previous to Thanksgiving, Sweet Bill crept noiselessiy into the barnyard, and finding himself unobserved, proceeded to tie a red cord about the leg of the doomed turkey. "Forty years ago, a wealthy planter came from Florida or Louisiana, to reside in Washington for a time, bringing with him a sou, a fine manly boy of thirteen or fourteen. At the levees of his father, which were then fashionable, he received the caresses of the ladies, and the encouragement of the goutlemen that his age, intelligence, and his father's position naturally elicited. Response of New York to the Call for Volunteers.

The Board of Supervisors of New York have already taken initiatory measures to secure the city's quota of the three hundred thousand volunteers just called for by the President. Oo Tucsday, Mr. Bluut, a republican member, offered a series of reso lutious, declaring the draft an expensive failure, and proposing to raise volunteers under the vew call, by the offer of $300 bounty, in addition to that of the State and general government. An ordinance appropriating $2,000,000 for this purpose was also presented, and it is said it will acceive the support of all political parties.

PROCEAMATION OF GOVERNOR SEYMOUR, OF NEW YORK.

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER, ALBANY,) October 20th, 1863. The President of the United States bas called upon me, as Governor of the State of New York, to furnish its quota of 300,-000 men, to recruit the volunteer forces of the "United States, which will be largely reduced during the coming year by the expiration of the terms of enlistment.

At this time the defenses of the national capital are menuced by a superior force, the Army of the Comberland is in an imperiled. condition, and the military operations of the government are dalayed and hindered by the want of adequate military power, and are threatened with serious disaster. In this emergency it is the duty of all the citizens to listen to the appeal sent forth by. the President, and to give efficient and cheerful aid in filling up the ranks of our

It is, due to our brothren in the field who have battled so heroically for the flag of eur- country, the Union of the States, and to uphold the constitution, that prompt and voluntary-assistance should be sent to them in this moment of their peril. They went forth in the full confidence that they would at all times receive from their felslow-oitizens at home a generous and efficient support. Every emotion of pride and patriotism should impel us to give this by volunteering and cheerful contribution of mendand money, and not by a forced conscription or coercive action on the part of the government. The President also advises the citizens of the several States that. in the event of the failure to raise the quotas assigned to them, a draft shall be made for the deficiency, to commence on the fifth day of January next.

Not only does duty to our soldiers in the that we shall continue to fill our armies by voluntary collistments, but the interests of all classes in society will be promoted by the success of that system.

The unequal burden which conscription not only causes great distress and mjury to individuals, but one more hartful to the whole community than the equalized distribution of the cost, and sacrifice of volunteering, which more perfectly adjusts itself to the condition of all classes. The bounties which will be paid by the general goveroment are extremely liberal, and much will aid the volunteers who shall enter the service to make immediate and ample provision for those dependent upon them.

sist in recruiting the volunteers called for from this State, by their influence and by liberal contributions, and I call upon all State officers to give-every assistance in their power to promote enlistments into with muskets, cannor and clothing. our armies, and thus save our citizens from the inequalities, irritations and sufferings of the draft, and at the same time animate our soldiers by an exhibition of sympathy and patriotic devotion, and give strength to our tarfules in their battles for the preservation of the Union.

SIXTY KILLED AND TWO HUNDRED WOUNDED. The report of the mutiny in Bragg's army seems to be confirmed by the latefintelligence. A letter from Chattanorga to the Cincinnati Commercial says ; It was occasioned by the refusal of the Georgia militia to remain longer in active service. They represented that they had volunteered only for the battle of Chicka- Station by Gen. Warren, and say that their mauga, to-drive the Pederal troops out of their own State, and that done, were unwilling to be retained in the Confederate service. Bragg refused to grant them permission to roturn home and they stacked arms, whereuponia division of Longstreet's men were ordered into-line. . Even this did not intimidate the valiant militia. They were resolute, and twere not to be edereed in any such style: s Finding no virtue in threats, hongstreet's men were ordered to fireCanon the authineers, and discharged several volleys at them, with what effect we have not been able to definitely ascertain. AMENDMENT OF THE CONSCRIPTION Law .- The Washington correspondent of the New York Evening Post says that there is talk in military circles of an early repeal of one of the sections of the conscription act by the new Congressthat which provided for temporary exemption by the payment of three hundred dol lars. Forrteen of the Ohio Congressional districts elected Democrats to Congress last fall. In the recent election twelve of these districts, as is shown by the returns given majorities against the Democratic party, most of them heavy majorities. These Congressmen were fully committed on the issue tried in this election, and were active i in trying it before the people. In spite of this verdict they will hold to their offices, and refuse to be governed by the expression of their constituents. Consequently twelve of the Ohio Congressional districts are utterly misrepresented, and the people have no legal remedy.

THE REMOVAL OF GEN. ROSECRANS .-The rumor of the removal of General Rosccrans from the command of the department of the Cumberland seems to be confirmed. A Washington dispatch to the New York Tribune says:

The fact that Gen. Rosecrans was with Gens. McCook and Crittenden asleep in Chattanooga, while Gen. Thomas was fighting a brave and desperate fight alone, has been known to the government for weeks. It is understood that Gen. Rosecrous has failed, ever since the battle of Chickamauga, to exhibit in his dispatches a spirit equal to the circumstances in which he found himself. It is now understood that Gen. Rosecrans came very near losing his command during the siege of Vicksburg, in consequence of his refusal to assist Gen Grant, after repeated orders by the government and from Gen. Grant himself, by published in the Cincinnati Gazette, have attacking Bragg, so as to make a diversion in Grant's favor, and prevent the reinforcement of Johnston. The government is satisfied that he was too cautious before crossing the Tennessee, and too rash afterwards, in the first case hesitating to obey orders to move, and in the second disregarding orders not to move too rapidly; that, in a word, the Chattanooga campaign was really a failure.

REASONS ASSIGNED FOR THE REMOVAL of Gen. Rosecrans .- The newspapers are assigning a variety of reasons for the removal of Gen. Resecrans from the command of the Department of the Cumberland. The Washington Chronicle is responsible for the following statement :

We are in receipt of astounding intelli coce in regard to the removal of General | United States Bank a great living monster. Rosecrans. The whole country will be stirred at what we shall chronicle:

In regard to the strength of their armies. must be one of the old regiments in the man is the better man and the purer patriot at the North. He claims to have good authority for stating that the strength of Lee's army previous to the sending of the two corps to reinforce Bingg did not exceed 60,000 efficient troops; that Bragg, with these reinforcements, had not over 40,000 men, and that he only managed to defeat Resecrans by a surprise and attacking his isolated columns.

He further states that the story of reinforcements having been sent to General Lee from Charleston and elsewhere, is totally incorrect. That there have been no troops sent to Lee, except in the way of deserters, and conscripts; that none have returned from Bragg's army, and to such straits have the Rebel authorities been reduced, that they are even forcing into the ranks those persons who have provided substitutes.

There was a general feeling of despondency in Richmond, and the fact was freely admitted that their armies were none of them sufficiently strong to assume offensive operations with any prospect of success; and that the want of men prevented Bragg from following up his success, and prevents him now from attacking the Federal army at Chattanooga.

The report of the rebel deserters is: said to be that Burnside, with a large force, had worked his way from the West through the mountains of East Tennessee and the southwestern part of Virginia, and wasmoving on Lynchburg, the base of suppliesfor the Rebel army. He was reported tobe near Abingdon. Va - one bundred and seventy-five miles from Lynchburg, and tohave destroyed the railroad for a distance of over forty miles. The news reached General Lee by courier on the 16th, and on the following day his retrograde movement towards Lynchburg commenced. The troops in advance, neder General Hill. were carried by an immense train of carsfrom Culpeper southward on Wednesday, the rest of the main army following by way of Warrenton and Greenwich.

The fight at Thoroughtare Gap on Sunday was between Stuart's and Buford's cavalry and their respective batteries. It lasted four hours, and was a most exclusively confined to the artillery on both sides. The action ended by a spirited charge of Gen. Buford's cavalry, who drove the Rebels back into the mountains.

Gen. Kilpatrick, with a force of his eavalry, got into a fight with some three brighdes of the enemy near New Baltimore on Monday evening. He made a spirited his speech at Indianapolis, Secretary Chase attack on the Rebels, but soon found that said: "When I reached Cincinnati, some they were cutting in on his flank and rear, body handed me the Inquirer; I dare say and had to turn and fight his way back today. The editor said, Chase has come to Rebels, but was fortunately sustained by Ohio to vote, but the man who carries the the arrival of the First Army Corps, under hod can kill Secretary Chase's vote. That Gen. Cutler, upon whose appearance the enemy fell back towards Aldie.

Confirmation of Burnside's Victories. The Washington Republican says:

The government have official advices from Gen. Burnside to the effect that his marches and victories in East Tennessee and Southwestern Virginia are really more brilliant than the rebel papers acknowledge. It will be observed that the rebel papers speak several times of their forces "withdrawing" and "falling back" as Burnside advanced

The facts are, that in almost every case the enemy was whipped back and routed from the field, leaving his dead and wonuded in our hands. The uprising and arming of the loyal men of Tennessee is going on to a much greater extent than the rebel papers indicate. Tennessee will soon be able to protect her own borders.

Gen. Burnside declares that there is not a more loyal people living than are found in East Tennessee. According to the robel statements, Gen Bornside has advanced to within one hundred and seventy five miles of Lynchburg, Va., the grand depot of supplies for Lee's army.

WASHINGTON, October 19 .- It will be ecollected that in April last the President made a contract with certain responsible parties for the deportation of 500 persons of color to the Island of Avash, on the southwest coast of Hayti, and for their colonization on satisfactory conditions, but recently information has reached here that these colonists were budly provided for, and that many of them died of disease, while others fled to more desirable localities. The Goverement, it is known, was cautious and studious in making such arrangements as would conduce to their benefit, in pursuance of the policy which entered into the contract. An agent will immediately bo dispatched to inquire into all the facts and report upon the present condition of affairs. in order that the President may direct such remedial action as shall be necessary.

16 Major General Barnside has written to the headquarters of the army details of his recent movements in East Tennessee. On the 10th inst., the enemy was dislodged from a strong position at Blue Springs, and, fleeing precipitately, were pursued by cavalry under General Shackelford, who drove them entirely from the State. At Zollicoffer General Shackelford captured a fort, burned a long railroad bridge, and destroyed three locomotives and thirty-five cars. Our loss at Blue Springs and in the preparing and using the same, which they will find a pursuit was about one hundred killed and wounded.

The Rebels have been pretty well cleared out of Eastern Kentucky. An expedition, consisting of detachments from two Kentucky regiments, recently sent out by Colonel Gallup, has returned to Cathlettsburg, bringing fifty prisoners, sixty horses and fifty stand of arms, without losing a CONDITION OF THE UNION PRISONERS IN RICHMOND.-Lieut. Col Broderick, of the 1st New Jersey Cavalry, wounded and taken prisoner by the enemy in the cavalry fight last June, is in Washington from Richmond. His statements concerning the condition of the Union prisoners are most remarkable. There are now at Richmond at least nine hundred officers and over ten are utterly destitute of shirts, pautalouns, are actually starved, and an officer who gave some portion of his food to some privates in the room below, by passing it through the floor, was confined in a dungeon. Great indignation has since been excited among our troops by the apparent neglect on the part of the Government of our prisoners in the South. The Lightest Draft Mower in the World. TT is the object of Farmers in purchasing a Machine to buy the best and cheapest. Both these objects will be attained by buying Russell's Screw Power.

The great amount of power lost in overcoming the friction of all Cog-geared Harvesters is saved in the Screw Power, by which we can offer the lightest draft Mower and Reaper in the world. This fact has been fully demonstrated by the various tests by Dyarmometer and otherwise, to which the machine has been subjected during the last two seasons. Among the various points of superiority in this machine ato the following : The use of open malleable iron guards, with steel plate or face, ground to a cutting edge. This, with the knives, gives a perfect sheer
